- 1) The Office action is in response to the application filed March 23, 2006. Claims 1-6 are pending. The amendment to the specification has been entered.
- 2) Figure 7 should be designated by a legend such as --Prior Art-- because only that which is old is illustrated. See MPEP § 608.02(g). Corrected drawings in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The replacement sheet(s) should be labeled "Replacement Sheet" in the page header (as per 37 CFR 1.84(c)) so as not to obstruct any portion of the drawing figures. If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.
- 3) Claim 1 is objected to because of the following informalities: Line 14 is grammatically incorrect. Appropriate correction is required.
- 4) The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 5) This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

- 6) The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

- 7) Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over admitted prior art in view of Breed (2003/0009270).

- 8) Regarding claim 1, Figure 7 of applicant's specification teaches the claimed inner and outer members, the plurality of rolling elements, sensor, and sensor transmitting section. The prior art does not teach an electric power receiving section for receiving electric power wirelessly. Breed teaches a variety of different sensors (including ABS) in a vehicle. Further, Breed teaches in paragraph 0043 that the sensors may derive their power from an RF interrogator as per conventional RFID devices. It would have been obvious to combine the teachings since they are in the same field of endeavor to gain an ABS sensor system that does not require a wire or a local generator. Further, it is conventional to use an antenna as a source of RF power in RFID systems. It would have been obvious to locate the antenna on the knuckle since this is a stable point that is near the existing sensor output.

- 9) Regarding claim 2, the location of the sensor transmitting section and the electrical power receiving section within the knuckle would have been obvious since this is a location close to the sensor and the transmission and reception of EM waves would not be blocked.
- 10) Regarding claims 3-4, it is conventional to integrate a sensor, a transmitter, and a power receiver in an RFID device for compactness. Thus, it would have been obvious to use conventional items for their known functions.
- 11) Regarding claim 5, the particular details of the sensor section are considered conventional in ABS sensors. The sensor transmitting section and the power receiving section has been addressed in prior claims. It would have been obvious to use a conventional sensor for its known function.
- 12) Regarding claim 6, see figure 7 of the instant application.
- 13) Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Albert K. Wong whose telephone number is 571-272-3057. The examiner can normally be reached on M-Th.
